Abigail Drake has spent her life traveling the world, and collecting stories wherever she visited. She majored in Japanese and International Economics in college and worked in import/export and as an ESL teacher before she committed herself full time to writing. She writes in several romance genres, and her books are quirky, light, fun, and sexy. She is a member of Romance Writers of America, Three Rivers Romance Writers, YARWA, Women's Fiction Writers, Mindful Writers, and PennWriters. Abigail is a trekkie, a book hoarder, the master of the Nespresso machine, a red wine addict, and the mother of three boys (probably the main reason for her red wine addiction). A puppy named Capone is the most recent addition to her family, and she blogs about him as a way of maintaining what little sanity she has left.

Abigail's book, TRAVELLER, will be released by The Black Rose line of The Wild Rose Press in 2016.
